The following is a KSCO commentary. Here is Kay Zwerling:

It is believed that Planned Parenthood has submitted an enormous amount of fraudulent claims, according to a lawsuit that alleges the nation's abortion industry giant has a routine practice of submitting repeated false fraudulent and ineligible claims for Medicaid reimbursement.

And, the case is being made by someone who should know – former Planned Parenthood clinic director Abby Johnson who became aware of the organization's billing practices when she was responsible for entering data about individual cases.

Such unprecedented Medicaid fraud must be investigated and prosecuted to determine if Planned Parenthood knowingly committed Medicaid fraud from 2007-2009, totalling many millions of dollars.

Surely Congress should support an in-depth probe to determine the extent of the criminal charges that should be filed.

No matter where anyone stands on abortion, everyone has to agree that Planned Parenthood must obey the law.

Such fraud when substantiated should forever disqualify Planned Parenthood from another penny of taxpayer funds.

Some appropriate federal agency should get to the bottom of this historic deception.

Finally, if indeed this fraud occurred from 2007-2009 – and it is now 2012, why has it taken so long to examine this fraud?

On another subject – as we speak, there is a new live action video that shows Planned Parenthood encouraging gender-selective abortions. That means if the mother is carrying a girl but wants a boy, she can legally abort the girl and I say if we open the door and condone this immoral direction it will be the beginning of we humans interfering with God's wishes.

For KSCO, this is Kay Zwerling.
